PRNANO has been designated as the official journal of the International Society for Nanomedicine (ISNM, Basel, Switzerland) and CLINAM, the European Society for Clinical Nanomedicine. Dr. Balogh has thirty-five years of experience in teaching, research, and academic publishing with a strong interdisciplinary background.

Lou is considered to be an international expert in Nanomedicine and scholarly publications. He has published 228 scientific papers, gave >230 invited lectures, and has been awarded 12 patents in chemistry, physics, nanotechnology, and nanomedicine. His publications have been cited over 8500 times (19 papers with more than 100 citations, 8 with more than 200 citations, and one cited over 1000 times; h-index=41).

Lou serves on the US Technical Advisory Group to ISO TC 229 Nanotechnology and on the Board of a number of international and US national organizations. Between 2008-2016 Lou, as Editor-in-Chief, took an upstart scientific journal (Nanomedicine: Nanotechnology, Biology and Medicine, Elsevier) from 5 editors and no impact factor in 2008, to 20 editors and  $IF_{2014} = 6.9$ , and over 480,000 downloads/year by 2017. Today, he is the President of Andover House, Inc., a not-for-profit online publishing company He also serves as the Executive Editor of Manuscript Clinic to support successful publications of research results in the fields of Nanomedicine and Nanotechnology. He gives courses, seminars, and presentations to improve communication skills (including practical manuscript writing) for scientists, for example at the Chinese Academy of Sciences (2014 and 2016), at the Seoul National University Hospital, Seoul, Korea (2017), and – as a Fulbright scholar - at the Semmelweis University, Budapest Hungary (2019/2020).
